Benefiting Neonatal Intensive Care Unit

There may be no greater joy and anticipation than that experienced by expectant parents. However, an event that should be filled with wonder, love, and excitement can become overwhelming and even traumatic for parents whose babies are born prematurely or have conditions requiring surgical intervention or other life-sustaining support.

Fortunately, Inland Empire families can rely on the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) at Loma Linda University Children’s Hospital to provide life-saving treatment for their precious babies. This advanced neonatal center provides the highest level of care for each infant, without regard for the family’s financial condition.

A skilled team of physicians, nurses, and other clinicians provide care for a wide range of diagnoses in a family centered environment able to accommodate up to 72 infants. The NICU transport team, available round-the-clock, cares for critically ill patients during transport from community hospitals by ambulance, helicopter, or fixed-wing aircraft.

Loma Linda University Children’s Hospital remains dedicated to serving Inland Empire communities by providing world-class healthcare for every child, regardless of social, ethnic, religious, or economic background.

Your support ensures that we will continue to meet these vital medical needs. On behalf of each precious patient, thank you for partnering with us.
